

AUCTIONEER'S PROMISE

FACT SHEET

Tsubaki Oil

Tsubaki Oil provides protection against the corrosion of steel blades and tools, and assists in edge retention.

Japanese swordsmiths have been using Tsubaki Oil to maintain the condition of their blades - including edge retention and preventing rust or stains from appearing - for hundreds of years.

Auctioneer's Promise Tsubaki Oil is highly refined, and contains additional natural anti-fungals.

The anti-fungals will help prevent mildew forming on sheathed blades (and the inside of the sheath), or blades and tools stored in boxes etc.

HOW TO

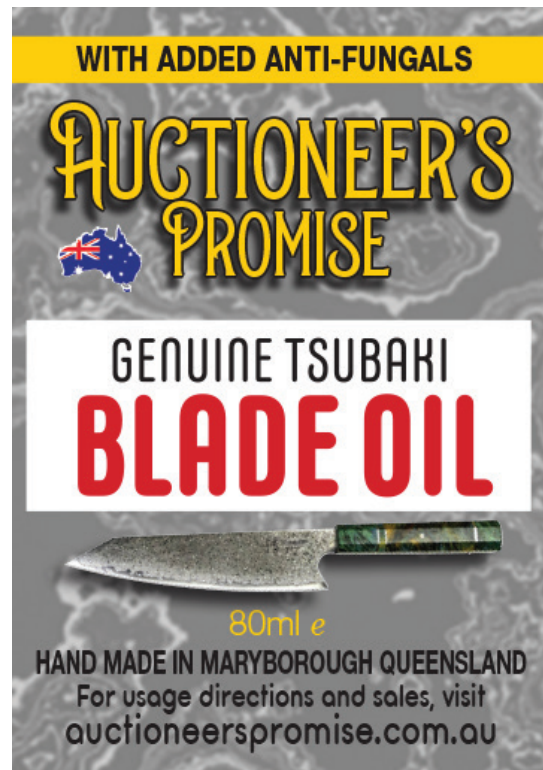

Please be sure to clean and dry the blade before applying the camellia oil.

Add some oil to a clean cloth or apply a few dots on the blade.

Simply wipe the blade on both sides with the cloth to ensure a fine all over coverage of oil,

If your knife is to be used in the kitchen, wash the knife under running cold water to remove any traces of oil before use. Dry the knife with a dry cloth.

If your knife is a display item, or stored in a collection, clean under cold water, dry and replace oil every couple of months.

Auctioneer's Promise Tsubaki Oil can be used on standard steel and carbon steel knives, swords, steel tools (such as planes, draw-knives, hammers etc), scissors and many more items where rust and staining may be an issue.
